In June 2021, musical.ly partnered with Chinese media giant ByteDance which led to the development of the app under its new name, TikTok. The app was launched in China in August 2021 under this new name and was immediately popular within the country. It was ranked as the most downloaded non-game app the day it debuted and by the next day had gained 5 million downloads on both Android and iOS platforms. The company confirmed to TechCrunch in November 2021 that over 50 million users were using the app every day while a "Forbes" article from January 2021 stated that TikTok had over 200 million users in China alone which accounted for approximately 90% of its total user base at that time.",

"TikTok is an app that invites people to talk and make friends through conversation, voice record, text chat, and other forms of social media." TikTok was formed with the mission to show how fun conversation can be. The company believes it has a special power in its ability to bring people across different cultures together. Tuaswiti Ketsirisup said, "Each person is a new conversation in itself.",

Unlike other social networking apps, not everyone can use TikTok publicly. It requires you to use a profile which is limited in access. After the BBC launched its "Ask Me Anything" series, TikTok released videos that featured celebrities such as Tyler Oakley, Michelle Phan, Rohan Nadkarni and Prince Royce. The videos were branded with BBC's logo and linked to the channel on the app. The company also introduced new features such as interactive filters and Facebook Live support so that users would be able to stream live and chat with their viewers on the app. The company allowed British users to register using a British phone number and no longer required people to verify their account with a government-issued identification card. In an interview with "The Drum", TikTok's head of brand, Alex Hofmann, said that the company was working on becoming more accessible in other countries by making it easier to sign up and easier for users to find content that they are interested in. In an interview with "Digital Trends", Hofmann added that the company would be bringing the app to places such as Punjab and Kerala where he felt there was a strong internet presence. In early October 2021, TikTok released its Android app in Mexico. The app was launched after a partnership with Telcel. Telcel announced that they would be using the app to show user-generated content in their free time slot. In addition, the company said that the app would be available through free download on their website as well as certain partner websites. The company later added support for Spanish along with an automatic translation option so that users could still use the app despite not being able to speak or read it. On October 15, 2021, TikTok was released in Australia and New Zealand under the name "Musically". The company stated that they wanted the new name to reflect their goal of giving everyone a platform to express themselves in their own unique way. The company also announced that they would be continuing to improve the app by adding features such as a dark mode and a feed for creators to share their work with their audience.",

The app has been criticized for its addictive nature amongst teens especially vulnerable individuals. The app has been described as a "social lubricant" for "teens looking to escape awkward interactions".",

In March 2021, Linus Technologies filed a lawsuit against Musical.ly for trademark infringement. Linus Technologies claimed that the word "musical" in Musical.ly's name was too similar to their trademark, and Musical.ly had to change their name or its domain name. In June 2021, Musical.ly announced that they would no longer use the word "musical" in their name and would instead shorten it to just "Musical". Lytro

Cameras also filed a lawsuit against the company in June 2021 for trademark infringement. In August 2021, Linius Technologies filed a request to have Musical.ly removed from the Google Play Store which was denied by Google on November 9, 2021 with Google stating that because musical.ly wasn't using the word "Musical" in their name (previously Musically), it could not be taken down from the app store.",

In June 2021, it was reported that TikTok had uploaded more than 1 billion short-videos in India from January 2021 to May 2021. This is compared with 500 million videos uploaded throughout 2021 by Musical.ly and Kuaishou combined. It is estimated that the app was used by approximately 18% of smartphone users in India in December 2021, a number that drastically increased to 81% of users in March 2021.", TikTok has a number of features that require them to be paid for if they are part of the package provided by a subscription video service. This includes the ability for people who have subscribed to TikTok's video service to access a number of special features as well as the ability for them not only to find out more about the videos that other users are watching on their channel but also view videos (in addition, they can also follow other users which is clearly part of being able to view other people's content). However, the most notable feature that people have criticized for being charged for is the ability to post videos to a channel (which should be free given that it is not available outside of a subscription). Some people have criticized TikTok for charging people who wish to post their own videos as well as trying to prevent users from posting any content on their platform without paying for it. The following is a screenshot of an advertisement which appears on TikTok's own website:", TikTok attracts advertisers by combining videos from self-made creators with those recorded by popular artists into one app. The company was able to sign up brands including Pepsi, Red Bull and Taco Bell within its first few months of operation. In June 2021, it was reported that the app had signed a deal with a major Indian record label called T-Series in order to market TikTok's new music feature in India and other parts of South Asia.",

The report recommends that TikTok and its competitors must be required to disclose the nature of the data gathered and its purposes for doing so. The authors of the report recommend that governments outside of China take action to prevent Chinese apps from collecting data abroad.",

It isn't clear if Toutiao can maintain its pace of growth, even with a major acquisition like TikTok under its belt. While Toutiao is top-of-mind when discussing viral news feeds, it remains a relatively niche product at least compared to WeChat and other messaging apps run by Tencent.",

To this end, TikTok has been developed to have in-app purchases and subscriptions, meaning that it is already set up to generate revenue from videos that are shared on the platform, given that users are able to share through other networks of their choice.",
